Strappings on skirts and on cloth and zibeline suits are much wider and covered with stitched lines. They are disposed in lengths pointed or tabbed. Some run in lines over seams, others are arranged in graduated groups, the wide strappings on light colored gowns are rendered more prominent by a cording of black silk or satin running around the strap, and the pointed ends are finished with three to five of the tiniest black silk buttons.

In Paris and Vienna many of the new models have shoulder capes elaborately trimmed with lace and fur. These are arranged as deep collars on the blouse or sack coat and correspond with the toilet. Shaped strappings are very elegant on these cape collars, and tassels are largely used. An exquisite costume of green velvet was made with a sack coat barely touching the top of the hips and simply trimmed with stitched bands of velvet. The sleeves, cut in bell form, were drawn into a rather large cuff of ermine, and the deep cape collar which covered the top of the arm had two narrow rows of ermine, of which the lower one ran up to meet an ermine collar about four inches deep.

FOR STREET WEAR.

Cape Effects on Tailor Shoulder

Strappings on skirts and on cloth and zibeline suits are much wider and covered with stitched lines. They are disposed in lengths pointed or tabbed. Some run in lines over seams, others are arranged in graduated groups, the wide strappings on light colored gowns are rendered more prominent by a cording of black silk or satin running around the strap, and the pointed ends are finished with three to five of the tiniest black silk buttons.

In Paris and Vienna many of the new models have shoulder capes elaborately trimmed with lace and fur. These are arranged as deep collars on the blouse or sack coat and correspond with the toilet. Shaped strappings are very eleare largely used. An exquisite costume of green velvet was made with a sack coat barely touching the top of the hips and simply trimmed with stitched bands of velvet. The sleeves, cut in bell form, were drawn into a rather large cuff of ermine, and the deep cape collar which covered the top of the arm had two narrow rows of ermine, of which the lower one ran up to meet an ermine collar about four inches deep.

A couple of winters ago I slipped on a frozen sidewalk and fell flat on my back. On being examined I found that I had sustained internal injuries which laid me up for more than two months. After that I noticed that I had pains in the back and groin which I never had before. I doctored and doctored for several months but as the pains in-creased instead of growing better I decided that I was not having the right treatment. Reading in the papers of the wonderful cures performed by Wine of Cardui I wrote to one of the parties and received a very satisfactory reply and I immediately sent for some. In a very short time I felt generally better and after seven weeks faithful use I was once more well and strong. I have never had a sick hour since and I daily bless
